

A region in which the higher the nitrogen content, the lower the band gap.